

The outlook for war with Germany is anything but pleasant to contemplate. There is no use worrying about it. Just keep cool and do a little "watchful waiting." President Wilson and congress can be depended upon to keep us out of war if it is possible to do so without sacrificing the nation's honor. Germany's action has stirred the governments of every neutral country on earth.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED

Missouri Press Association Recommends Increased Price for Papers

The following resolution was introduced and unanimously adopted by the members of the Missouri Press Association in convention assembled at the Planters hotel, St. Louis, Mo., January 12, 1917.

Whereas, The price of raw materials entering into the manufacture of a newspaper have increased from 50 to 200 per cent, and it is apparent that many of the most useful papers in this state will be forced to discontinue publication unless something can be done to relieve this condition, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Missouri Press Association in convention assembled, hereby recommends to all publishers in this state that they immediately increase the subscription price of their papers, their advertising rates and other sources of income, to the end that they may so augment their income as to meet the prices now confronting them.

Omri Pierce left Wednesday for Dutchtown, where he is going to work.

Bryan Stone spent the week end at home.

Edward Statler committed suicide at his home by hanging himself in his barn the morning of February 3.

He went to feed some cattle and remained longer than usual and Mrs. Statler went to see what detained him and found him hanging. We do not know what caused him to commit the horrible deed, but the supposition is that he became mentally unbalanced over some business matter.

He fastened the rope near the window to the stable loft and jumped out, and it is supposed that death resulted instantly. Mr. Statler was a son of Dan Statler of near Sedgewickville and a good and very industrious citizen and leaves a widow, who he married some six or eight months ago. He was about 25 years of age. He purchased a farm from John Slinkard last fall and moved to it. The remains were taken to Sedgewickville for interment.

Mrs. Fannie Pierce bought a fine mare from Wash Devore last week.

Rev. J. M. Stratton failed to fill his appointment at Locust Grove Saturday evening and Sunday on account of sickness.

Omri and Ora Pierce made a business trip to Jackson and Millersville last week.

Walking Is Best Health Aid For Winter Weather

With the coming of cold weather taking exercise should not be forgone. It is needed more than ever.

With the advent of winter the appetite for sweet and greasy things increases, and most people over-eat. To utilize this amount of food, plenty of exercise in the bracing fresh air is required.

Among the best exercises and the one which is within the range of every one, is walking. Five miles a day is not too much for the average person, and seldom such weather conditions occur as to make this impossible. It is not well to walk so rapidly or so far as to induce excessive fatigue. It is not advisable to walk in the face of a strong wind if it can be avoided. Those who are not accustomed to walking should begin by going a short distance each day, preferably on fairly level ground, gradually increasing the distance and the speed.

The president of the American Walkers' association gives this advice on the proper method of walking:

"Walk upright, shoulders back, chest expanded. Allow arms to swing freely, step out with a snap. Walk with the hips, not with the knees.

The slow, haphazard, often slouchy gait of the ordinary citizen is not walking. It is a poor imitation that gets him nowhere and is of little or no value as a health builder.

"How different is the walk of the practiced pedestrian gliding along with long, even stride, head erect, chest expanded and arms swinging freely in perfect rhythm to each thrust of the opposite leg. Covering distances with little effort that to the average person would be quite impossible at the gait that surprises the casual observer, he finds his walking a pleasure second to none.

"He visits places of interest impossible to reach by trolley or train, traverses roads through the most beautiful scenery, climbs up hills and down dales, and roams through fields and woods inaccessible even to the automobilist and the cyclist.

"In addition, he fills his lungs with pure, invigorating air, sends his blood pulsing through his veins, carrying fresh life and vitality to every part of his body.

The Booster and Knocker

When the Creator had made all the good things, there was still some dirty work to do, so He made the beasts and reptiles and poisonous insects, and when He had finished He had some scraps that were too bad to put into the rattle snake, the hyena, the scorpion and the skunk, so He put all these together, covered it with jealousy, marked suspicion, wrapped it with jealousy, marked it with a yellow streak and called it a Knocker.

This product was so fearful to contemplate that He had to make something to counteract it, so He took a sunbeam and put in the heart of a child, the brain of a man, wrapped these in civic pride, covered it with brotherly love, gave it a mask of velvet and a grasp of steel and called it a Booster; made him a lover of fields and flowers and manly sports, a believer in equality and justice, and ever since these two were, mortal man has had the privilege of choosing his associates—Piggott Critic

Missouri Man Helps Lift Farm Mortgages

The man who knows most about the subject of "How to Make the Farm Pay," in the United States is a Missourian—William J. Spillman, chief of the office of Farm Management in the bureau of Plant Industry of the United States department of agriculture. Mr. Spillman received his agricultural education at the university of Missouri. He was graduated from the college of Agriculture with a B. S. degree in 1886 and received his master's degree in 1890.

The work of Mr. Spillman is the subject of a personal article in the January number of the American Magazine under the title of "A Wonderful Question Answered," by Fred C. Kelley.

"His province is to answer questions," Mr. Kelley writes "He knows more than any other man in the country about 'How to Make the Farm Pay.' There may be others who know just as much as Spillman about how to run a farm in a given locality but Spillman knows just what to do in any part of the whole United States. He could go any place at random, take charge of a farm, and make it pay a profit.

No matter what the question is, whether it is about crop rotation, irrigation, or how to arrange one's fields to secure the minimum number of footsteps, or market guinea pigs, Spillman has the answer ready."

Spillman gets more mail than the president of the United States, the writer asserts.

"He has a bigger acquaintance on rural free delivery routes than any man in the United States. And those who know him look on him as a sort of a helping hand, society, so that he is both well and popularly known."
